Message from the President

Dear Fellow Members

I hope you and your families had a very restful and happy holiday season.

How exciting to be at the beginning of new decade - especially as 2020 is designated the 'Year of the Nurse and Midwife' by the World Health Organization to mark Florence Nightingale's Bicentennial on the May 12th.

I am celebrating by taking up the presidency of IACRN and will strive to support the many initiatives we have to enrich the work of CRN's and their patients across the globe.

Our committees are busy and many projects are underway including the development of the core curriculum and certification. The dedication of members collaborating to achieve our objectives is awe inspiring. I am continually amazed and delighted to work alongside such remarkable colleagues. We are fortunate to have members keen to make a contribution and I hope you will channel your passion for clinical research into active support for IACRN.

I feel so privileged to be embarking on this adventure at this time. Our membership has grown to record levels with delegates from 34 countries attending our conference last year in Philadelphia. The buzz and excitement was palpable and Mary Larkin - our immediate past president - has so much to be proud of. I look forward to welcoming our new Board of Directors and working with them as your first international president - (although I always say we are all international - it just depends on where you are standing!).

I would like to take this opportunity to announce a monthly twitter activity @IACRN around the 12th of each month. So this is the perfect time to take the twitter plunge! Click link to twitter instructions here. You might have seen it, if not have a look now and join the conversation. Throughout the year, we will be encouraging connections while promoting and supporting CRN's. Follow me @JenAllisonCRF #ILoveIACRN

I look forward to hearing from you and hope you will join me in supporting IACRN - there is much we can achieve together especially this year, in the Year of the Nurse.

Jennifer Allison
President, IACRN
