

Clinical Research RNs – Nephrology, Genetics and Trauma
Phoenix Children’s – Phoenix, Arizona
Full-time

When you join the healthcare team at Phoenix Children’s, you’ll see the world of medicine through the eyes of a child. You’ll be amazed by something new every day, inspired by the capabilities and expertise of your co-workers, and you’ll be able to transform your professional ambitions into realities. Here, you can be part of a growing system that will never outgrow its sense of joy, purpose or discovery. Come grow with us.

Clinical Research RNs – Nephrology, Genetics and Trauma

We’re looking for lifelong learners who transform curiosity into discovery to join us in an inspiring place—filled with hope, positivity, support and compassion.

These opportunities provide and coordinate clinical care for research subjects. Supporting the Principal Investigator and Research team, the Clinical Research Nurse has a central role in assuring participant safety, ongoing maintenance of informed consent, integrity of protocol implementation, and accuracy of data collection, data recording and follow-up. These positions also engage in study procedures including administration of investigational drugs, detailed clinical assessments including adverse event assessments, and performing laboratory tests. Additional nursing care may be necessitated by the response of the participant to the study intervention. These positions are responsible for study coordination and data management, with a central focus on managing subject recruitment and enrollment, consistency of study implementation, data management and integrity, and compliance with regulatory and institutional requirements and reporting.

Phoenix Children’s offers full- and part-time employees a comprehensive benefits package including:

- Competitive pay with incentives
- 401(k) Retirement Plan with company match
- Health, dental, vision, and life insurance beginning the first day of the month following hire date
- Tuition reimbursement up to $5,250 per year
- DailyPay
- Childcare discounts and much more!

Minimum Qualifications:

- Current State of Arizona RN license
- Associate's Degree (ADN) in Nursing, Bachelor's preferred
- Two years bedside/clinical nursing experience
- ACRP or SOCRA Clinical Research Certification
