Call to Volunteers!

Do you want to build more connections, enhance your resume and make the most of your IACRN Membership? We are looking for members just like you! Lend your special talents by volunteering on one of our many committees working hard to constantly improve and enhance the practice and advancement of Clinical Research Nursing. We have both short and long term engagement opportunities from Annual Conference planning to IACRN organizational management. Current committees in need of volunteers include:

- Conference Planning Sub Committees: IACRN Conference Abstract Review and Analysis, Education and Webinar Presentation Reviewers, Onsite volunteers
 - Research Ethics
 - IACRN Board Nominations Committee
- Click here to view our full list of IACRN Committees

Volunteering requires only a few hours of your time and provides opportunities to make valuable connections with other IACRN members. Email us TODAY at iacrn@iacrn.org to learn more! Thank you for assisting IACRN in its mission to support the CRN Community.

New Feature! Board's Corner

Hello and Happy March!

I am honored to write this month's board's corner from the perspective of a new board member. I joined the board in January of this year in the member at large position. My responsibilities at the board level are to make sure that the voice of the members is brought forward. I look forward to hearing from you all so that I can represent our membership as best as I can.

For the last several years, I have seen the board nominations come out and thought to myself, "that's not for me", or "they must be looking for someone with far more experience". One day this fall I was chatting with my IACRN mentor through the IACRN leadership program (which I highly recommend!) and she encouraged me to step up and put my name in for a board position. She just said, "why not" and I did not really have a good excuse, so those two little words pushed me to put my name in for the member at large position and the rest is history. In these first two months, I have really learned a lot about the organization and have been able to see IACRN from a different perspective.

Prior to joining the board, I have been serving on the Membership and Marketing Committee since 2014, and continue to be involved with that committee as the board liaison. If you are considering joining a committee I would encourage you to take the first step and sign up. You do not necessarily need to be an expert in the committee's focus area to join. I certainly did not have marketing expertise when I joined the membership and marketing committee, but have been able to learn a lot and contribute along the way. If you want to know a little secret, the MMC is the best committee to join. We always have a lot of fun!

I will leave you with the challenge of asking yourselves "why not". You will always think of reasons not to get involved, not enough time, nothing to contribute, etc. Move beyond these reasons and get involved today! IACRN's future depends on the members getting involved and carrying forward the initiatives of the organization. If you are interested in getting involved with an IACRN committee or initiative please check out our Committees here! We welcome your skills, talents and initiative!
